A Message from Miss Olver

Another week has flown by and I can't believe we are now half way to the Easter Holidays! Everyone is now fully stuck into their new topics in class. This week, Explorers have been learning all about how Morse Code was used on the Titanic and practised writing and sending their own messages using lights. Voyagers have been carrying out scientific investigations to explore the effect exercise has on our bodies. Adventurers have been learning about different body parts and how to keep themselves safe and Discoverers went on a lovely walk exploring our village. Thank you to Mrs Downie who helped with this.

World Book Day

On Friday 7th March, we celebrated World Book Day at school. The event was planned by our School Council who decided to encourage everyone to dress up and bring in a donation of some animal food to send to the RSPCA. They also asked everyone to bring in a pre-loved book and then ran a book swap activity so that every pupil was able to choose a different book to take home. The day was filled with fun activities linked to books, such as making bookmarks, listening to stories and taking part in a Gruffalo trail. A huge thank you to Mrs Flood for helping School Council to organise the event and to Elliott for designing and making the Gruffalo trail for everyone to enjoy. As you can see, we love reading at East Meon!

FEMS Update

The FEMS book sale, which took place last Friday as part of our World Book Day celebrations, raised a total of £78.65. The children really enjoyed going to the Lodge and choosing books to buy.

As you may have heard, the Izaac pub has now closed. FEMS have kindly purchased three of their lovely picnic benches for us, which are now positioned in our outside area. I am sure they will be used lots over the coming months and years. FEMS used the £165 raised from the ASDA cashpot to purchase these. Thank you to the team who moved these for us in the week.

Please see the advert to the right for more information about their upcoming events next Friday.

A huge thank you again to our amazing FEMS team for all they do to support our school and to all of you for supporting their events.

Lego Request

Mrs Smith has asked for donations of Lego please. This is often used to support ELSA interventions and to run Lego therapy sessions. She has said that any unwanted Lego would be welcomed, this does not have to be part of a set.

Gymnastics Performance

In assembly yesterday, our gymnasts performed a routine they had put together during their after-school club sessions with Mr Fooks this term. It was lovely to see them showing off their skills and inspiring the younger children to get more involved in this sport.
